
ANX Holding gains in strength with the takeover of Telematica Internet Service Provider GmbH

The Klagenfurt-based holding company with the international IT service provider Anexia expands its portfolio with the purchase of the telephony and DSL provider for the home and business sector.

Klagenfurt/Graz, January 25, 2016 – supplying private customers and companies of any size with the right IT services – that is the objective of ANX Holding. In addition to the globally acting managed hosting company and software developer Anexia, the computer center operator Datasix as well as the service provider ISQ Solutions and emerion WebHosting are also a part of ANX Holding and their wide range of IT services. The takeover of the Austrian telecommunication provider Telematica now means that comprehensive telephony and DSL services have been added.

The acquisition of Telematica Internet Service Provider GmbH (<https://www.telematica.at/>) was concluded in January 2016. Neither of the companies want to disclose the purchase price. Thus, not only is Telematica's management, working with CEO Matthias Hohl, now a part of the ANX team, but all employees and customer contracts have also been taken over by the holding company. Matthias Hohl looks forward to future cooperation: "The takeover by ANX Holding with their globally positioned IT service provider Anexia makes it possible for us to make new investments in highly modern IT solutions for our customers and significantly strengthen our market position. We look forward to the opportunity of offering even higher quality products in the future."

Telematica is a provider of professional telecommunication solutions at its location in Graz with a clear focus on the Austrian market. Housing, cloud services and hosting tariffs are also among their products for business and private customers.

Above all, we were very impressed with the advanced range of VoIP solutions offered by Telematica, which perfectly supplements our existing range of products. This allows us to take a further important step on the way to becoming a full-service IT provider for the most diverse customers – from enterprise business to private persons," reflects Alexander Windbichler, CEO of ANX Holding, satisfied with the acquisition. With the takeover of another IT provider after ISQ Solutions and emerion WebHosting, ANX Holding is now also in the position of being able to develop the telephony business segment. This enables the complete solution provider to handle all areas of the internet infrastructure in the home and business area from the local computer center locations in Vienna and Klagenfurt.

About ANX Holding

ANX Holding is a globally networked holding company of businesses from the IT services and software development sectors. The holding was founded by Alexander Windbichler in 2012 and serves for strategic alignment as well as the bundling of expertise of the companies involved. Its portfolio currently includes, among others, the companies Anexia, Datasix and ISQ Solutions. More information: www.anx-holding.com

Press contact

Lucia Schoepfer
Marketing & Kommunikation
presse@anexia-it.com
+43-50-556-8850

